To write a song, to write anything for someone you feel very deeply about is hard, because you really want to pour everything into it, you want to tear open your heart and allow it to beat upon the pages of composition that you have written so it will mean the most it ever can, so it will connect with the person whom you feel that way about with the maximum of intent, the truth of loves burns fiercely.

Here pianist Edo Sanz has created Always for his wife, this is also his new single, and from the very moment you hear the first few bars of the piece you can literally feel the honest emotions of a deep seated love pour from the keys.

This is a very moving arrangement and one that has such a depth of truth about its construction. The artist clearly is performing with his heart on his sleeve with this one. Always is indeed his anthem to her and this is a composition that explores the deep rivers of emotions that are shared between them both.

If you a fan of solo piano and adore the emotive energies of a powerful and moving performance, then you are going to love Always by Edo Sanz.
